Royal Battleships.

This game is played like traditional battleships.

1. The game is played in pairs. Each player has a sheet. First they place their 1 castle, 2 towers and 2 knights in the top grid, making sure their partner cannot see where they have placed them.
2. The players take turns to try to find their partner's castle, towers and knights. They do this by choosing a square. For example, if they choose the square I have marked X, they have to make a sentence with you are the subject and using do/does. Do you like apples? Where do you live? But You do the washing up is also possible.
3. If this square does not contain a castle, tower or knight their partner says Miss. If this square contains a castle, tower or knight their partner says Hit or Hit and shot down if all the squares of the object have been found.
